Japanese Bamboo Art from New York: The Abbey Collection - Gifts to The Metropolitan Museum
Bamboo Art: The Abby Collection

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is pleased to present an exhibition of bamboo art from the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Sculpture Garden Collection, one of the most significant collections of bamboo art in the world. Drawing from the 19th and 20th centuries, this exhibition highlights the versatility and innovation of bamboo as an art form. The works on display range from traditional Japanese and Chinese pieces to more contemporary interpretations.

The exhibition opens on February 12th and runs through April 15th. Hours are daily from 10 am to 5 pm, with extended hours on Fridays until 9 pm.

Bamboo art is characterized by light, graceful lines and intricate patterns. Its remarkable durability and versatility make it a beloved material for artists of all cultures. In this exhibition, visitors will have the opportunity to appreciate the beauty and craftsmanship of these works, from the traditional to the modern.
